WHAT IS INHABIT?

Inhabit was founded in 2010 as multiple churches, denominations, and leading ministry organizations began to entertain a simple hunch: what if God is up to something really big and global but it can only be discovered through the small and local? Convened by the Parish Collective and the Seattle School of Theology and Psychology, the result was a dynamic gathering for the sake of reimagining church and transforming neighborhoods. Inhabit includes keynotes from global voices, workshops with innovators from multiple sectors, exhibitions by artists and artisans, opportunities for relationship-building through curated conversations, and more. Well beyond a lecture series, Inhabit invites participants to experiment, listen, and share their knowledge.

WHO ATTENDS INHABIT?

Each year hundreds of practitioners, pastors, social entrepreneurs, church planters, community leaders, environmentalists, denominational executives, publishers, professors, urban planners, and artists from all over the globe come together to connect, collaborate, and celebrate the good work being done in thousands of neighborhoods and parishes. They share a common vision for seeing the transformation of the church through their participation in their neighborhood. They are educated yet grounded in practice, committed to interdisciplinary work, and invested in the flourishing of the Kingdom of God.

WHAT'S IN STORE FOR INHABIT 2017?

Now more than ever we believe that convening together to hear the stories of hope from real places, meet new practitioners, and plot towards collaborative new ventures. While major media outlets constantly broadcast an onslaught of confusion and turmoil in our increasingly divided culture, in the neighborhood, a new hope is rising. God is refounding the church in the everyday context of the parish. Hundreds of movements from across the church and in the public square are converging in the local. As communities knit together a fabric care, old divides are being reconciled, new possibilities are emerging, and all sorts of cross-sector collaboration become possible. Join us as we celebrate and innovate towards The Great Local Convergence! To do this we will unveil new pre-day conferences, new immersive environments, a brand new app, and new storytelling and connective platforms.

WHY PARTNER WITH INHABIT?

The Inhabit Conference draws people who are passionate about seeing the Kingdom of God in their neighborhoods and our partners are no different. Partnering with Inhabit gives you the opportunity to connect with people who are pioneering new ways to be the church. Partners are invited to participate alongside attendees in the conversation of what it means to live intentionally into place. We would love to partner with you in seeking the renewal that God is calling forth in the very real and particular places we all inhabit.
