WHAT IS INHABIT?

Inhabit was founded in 2010 as multiple churches, denominations, and leading ministry organizations began to entertain a simple hunch: what if God is up to something really big and global but it can only be discovered through the small and local? Convened by the Parish Collective, this dynamic gathering brings together the leading voices and practitioners of a movement is reimagining the local church by joining God in the transformation of our neighborhoods. Inhabit includes keynotes from global voices, workshops with innovators from multiple sectors, exhibitions by artists and artisans, opportunities for relationship-building through curated conversations, and much more. Well beyond a lecture series, Inhabit invites participants to share their stories, listen deeply to others, and build ongoing relationships and partnerships.

WHO ATTENDS INHABIT?

Each year hundreds of practitioners, pastors, social entrepreneurs, church planters, community leaders, environmentalists, denominational executives, publishers, professors, urban planners, and artists from all over the globe come together to connect, collaborate, and celebrate the good work being done in thousands of neighborhoods and parishes. They share a common vision for seeing the transformation of the church through their participation in their neighborhood. They are educated yet grounded in practice, committed to interdisciplinary work, and invested in the flourishing of the Kingdom of God.

WHAT'S IN STORE FOR INHABIT 2018?

Convening together to hear stories from real places, meet new practitioners, and plot collaborative new ventures is what Inhabit is all about. While it may not always feel like it, you are not alone, God is doing something new, and there are thousands of reasons for hope, especially at the neighborhood level. If you are in need of hope, Inhabit is for you. If you have hopeful stories to share, Inhabit is for you. Hundreds of movements from across the church and in the public square are converging in the local and are brimming with hope. This year we will unveil new pre-day conferences, new immersive environments, a new app, and new storytelling and connective platforms.
